Governor and Other Russian Authorities Have Fled, and M. Libovitch Chosen Mayor.

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PETERRBURG, Jam. 5.—On account of the serious condition of afairs on the Siberian railroad, many stations of which are in a condition of anarchy, seventeen districts through which the line passes from the Ural mountains to Lake Baikal, a distance of L800 miles, have been placed under martial law.

The prefect of Rostoff-on-Don. Count Pillar Von Pilhau, has been dismissed. General Dracheffski, who was retired from the management of the Finnish railroad on the demand of the Finnish railroad on the demand of the Finnish railroad control of the reforms were granted, sueceds Count Von Pilhau.

All the factories, mills and other industrial enterprises here closed to-day for the holidays. The employers, at a general meeting, decided not to open their establishments, in view of the threats of disorder, until after Jan. 22, the anniversary of "red Sunday."

MANSFIELD IN TRAGEDY.

"Don Carlos" a Great Production.

Beau Brummel Pleases Despite Mr. Mansfield's saying that "Don Carlos" was not satisfying, the great tragedy of Frederick Schiller, as played at the Academy last night, filled a thoughtful and intelligent audience with satisfaction.

The playing of Mr. Mansfield was marvelously sincere, and not the loss so when one recalled that "Don Carlos" followed within three short hours the pathetic comedy of Beau Brummel.

The artistic ability of America's most distinguished actor is held in high esteem by the Richmond public, but the scholarly and thoughtful production of Schiller's tragedy adds fresh laurels to those that already adorn the master. Undoubtedly the finest scene is the grand denunciation of King Philip by Don Carlos in the fourth act, but the scene in the third act between Princess Eboli and Don Carlos is no less full, of artistic charm. The company was excellent, and the play beautifully staged.

"Heau Brummel." presented by Mr. Richard Mansfield at the matinee on yesterday, was as charming a production as has been seen at the Academy in many a year, for while "the Beau" does not rank as loftlij as do many of the other Mansfield parts, it is "all his own"—his inimitable own, which lives when he plays it and is dend for all other time.

The play is essentially a one-part piece, but that one part, played by Mr. Mansfield, is so full and convincing, so bedeeked with the masterly trickeries of art, and withal so complete with "the ruling passion," that, like Oliver Twist, one hungrily longs for more.

and within so, that like Oliver Twist, one passion," that like Oliver Twist, one hungrily longs for more.

The acting of Mr. Mansfield was the perfection of art, and the support given him by his company was excellent.

Mr. Leslie Kenyon, as "Lord Manley," and Mr. A. G. Andrews, as "Mortimer," placing the cart before the horse, were worthy of especial praise.

The casting was over 46 liches in diameter and nearly 26 inches long, so that the welding of the casting was a very heavy and tedious undertaking. The repaired cylinder was rebored with a very light cut to restore the casting to true outline, the weld being distinguishable only upon close inspection.

Interesting Development in Case of Mysterious Murder of New Yorker.

(By Associated Press.) NEW HAVEN, CONN., January 6.-The dence pointing to the belief that Charles A. Edwards, of New York, the victim of the mysterious murder at the Hiller family homestead, was not shot in the bed where he was found, was the most interesting development in the case to-day This evidence came to light when an examination was made of the clothing on the body. On one of the stockings, the the body. On one of the stockings, the left one, a blood clot as large as the end of a man's thumb, was discovered and blood had soaked through the stocking and spread over the top of the instep.

This is considered to leave little doubt that the body was placed in the guest chamber bed after the shooting, and the detectives are working on the theory that the man was shot when standing or in some other position, where the blood from the wound in the left side of the head would fail upon his foot. The fact that on the left stocking, also, there was a collection of lint or carpet dirt, is believed to lend color to the theory that he was dragged in an unconsclous condition to the bed. There was no lint on the stocking which covered the right foot. It was said to-day that two bullets have been found imbedded in one of the walls of the guest camber.

Reports circulated during the day that poison had been found in the body were denied by surgeons who assisted in the autopsy, but the result of the chemist's examination of the stomach was nevertheless a walted with interest.

The search for the pistol with which the crime was committed went on to-day without result. At the coroner's office, it was said that his report on the inugest would not be given out to-night, though the investigation is about complete. left one, a blood clot as large as the end

Requests, Not Orders.

Midshipman Marzoni was called to the stand by his counsel. He absolutely dehed that he had hazed Roberts or ever knew him. He said that Tye had brought him food by request. He had thanked him for so doing, and Tye did not appear to make any objection to this. He only knew of two occasions when Tye brought him food. Bryant had also brought him food and a glass of milk. It had been done under the same circumstances as in Tye's case.

Marzoni then absolutely denied that he had compelled Bryant to stand on his head, as alleged in the specification. He said that he had never stood a fourth classman on his head, and did not believe it a proper thing to do. On cross-exami-Requests, Not Orders,

When asked for an explanation of Pry-ant's testimony, Marzoni said he could not explain it, except to say that Bryant was mistaken. The accused midshipman not explain it, except to say that Bryant was mistaken. The accused midshipman was then asked in regard to the bringing of breakfast to his room by Tye and Bryant. He said that both boys were from the same section of the country as himself, and that it was the custon among Southern midshipmen to be on a friendlier footing than others. He had requested the youths, not ordered them to bring his breakfast when he was not down, and they had done so.

to bring his breakfast when he was not down, and they had done so.

The defense contended strongly that the under classmen did these things as a courtesy to Marzoni and an act of friendship, and not under compulsion.

Marzoni was followed on the stand by Charles A. Woodruff, lis room-mate, who testified to Marzoni's fondness for a little morning sleep, and that he missed breakfast formation frequently in consequence. Several other midshipmen said they had carried rolls and milk to Marzoni.

John Dixon, of Fayettoville, Ala., a member of the second class, said that he considered Marzoni was very nice to onsidered Marzoni was very nice
